

Research on the cultural life of Koreans in Japan

Pak Ho Ryol

This report analyzes the cultural life of Koreans in Japan through the use of questionnaire data. The research subject is Korean “oldcomers” who have lived in Japan since the Korean Peninsula was colonized by the Japanese. This paper attempts to clarify a section of the cultural life of the Koreans in Japan by examining the presence of religious services, the style of ceremonial occasions, the choice of marriage partners, food preferences, and so on.
