

Thinking Natural Resource-based Economies with Development Economics: Focusing on the Targeting

Takashi WAKABAYASHI

The aim of this paper is to organize issues to be discussed in Natural Resource Based Economy (NRE) through the filter of targeting, one of the knowledge that Development Economics has accumulated.

Focusing on a sustainability of agriculture and rural areas, the author has organized issues, with the filter of targeting, such as the positioning of agriculture and rural areas, the clearness of objective of financial measures on agriculture and rural areas, and the evaluation of efficiency and equity when externality to be considered and the revision of externality.