Douglas: My request must be submitted to the War Office in London. I will be returned the draft, and by hand, limited to only long draft for our language.

Home Office (23/32/5): Thanks, but this is not possible. It is not appropriate, and it is not the matter of any consequence. I am sure you think?

Douglas: Thank you for London's effort.
Dear —,

I am writing to express my deepest condolences on the sudden and unexpected passing of our mutual friend, Mr. Johnson. His sudden departure has left a gap in our community that will be difficult to fill. Despite the challenges we faced together, Mr. Johnson always had a strong will to overcome them, and his spirit will continue to inspire us all.

I remember the times we spent together, sharing stories and laughter. His wisdom and kindness will be missed by many. As I reflect on his life, I am reminded of the importance of cherishing the moments we have with those we love.

Please accept my sincere condolences and know that you and your family are in my thoughts during this challenging time.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

A page from a handwritten text is visible, but the text is not legible. It appears to be a personal or historical document, possibly related to the 18th or 19th century, given the handwriting style and the presence of dates and locations. The text seems to be a record or journal entry, but the details are not discernible due to the handwriting style.

Extract from Letter from London:

"The right Opposition produced a Motion to censure Administration as disgraceful, that no Officer, employed in collecting His Majesty's Revenue, should be allowed to vote in the Election of a Member of Parliament; Administration carried the Question 264 to 46, no Administration Law passed 35 since the last Election. All those that voted for the House of Lords desired against all. We look upon Administration to be ruinous.

"May we come over to you? Do not deny any closer time.
