ABOUT THE VIDEO

It took about two hours to interview Yusuke Takahashi and Masahiko Yamashita, who are the core staff members at the Tono Union Volunteer Center. How did they provide rearguard support for disaster volunteers? How was the transitory space for this support constituted? What kinds of actions and thoughts underlay the work of the Volunteer Center? This interview was conducted to examine these questions and to investigate the process of making and managing the Tono Union Volunteer Center in response to the Great East Japan Earthquake and Tsunami. I hope that viewers will be able to gain a vivid perception of these trials by watching this video.
